

Countdown to the Elektra Awards

20th November 2014 - There is just one week to go until the 2013 Elektra Awards begin (with the ceremony being held on the 27th November at the Grosvenor House Hotel, London). The awards, which are now in their 11th year, celebrate the achievements of companies and individuals throughout the European electronics industry. FTDI Chip is fortunate enough to have been nominated yet again this year - with the innovative FT800 Embedded Video Engine (EVE) device making the shortlist in the highly coveted Digital Semiconductor Product category. In addition, to further underline the company's strong commitment to helping develop the engineering talent of the future, FTDI Chip is sponsoring the Educational Support Award.
